   b. designate a primary representative who will be the primary representative of the member organization, including email and phone number,
   c. designate an alternate representative, who will act as the primary representative from time to time if the alternate is unavailable,
   d. indicate the method by which they wish to pay the first year’s dues, which may be by invoice or credit card payment, and

3) In addition, in applying for membership, organizations may designate a markets representative, a regulatory representative, and a technical representative who will be the primary representative for the associated committee.
